Frontier Airlines Resumes Seasonal Nonstop Service from Northeast Florida Regional Airport to Philadelphia

ST. AUGUSTINE, FL - Frontier Airlines, today, resumes its low-fare service at Northeast Florida Regional Airport (UST) in St. Augustine, FL, with the seasonal return of nonstop service to Philadelphia International Airport (PHL). Flights between Northeast Florida Regional Airport and Philadelphia will operate on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays through the 2017 Summer season. Visit flyfrontier.com to book a flight.

Resumption of Seasonal Service

"We are excited to once again welcome Frontier back to the Northeast Florida Regional Airport for the Spring/Summer season," said Edward Wuellner, Executive Director, Northeast Florida Regional Airport. "Frontier continues to provide an ideal match for our airport by offering local residents convenient access to the Philadelphia region during the spring and summer months while also allowing visitors from the northeast direct, low fare access to all that St. Augustine and the First Coast have to offer."

"We're thrilled to provide low fare service on this route by offering St. Augustine locals low fare service to Philadelphia as well as allowing Philly locals to enjoy all the fun in the sun that Northeast Florida has to offer," said Richard Oliver, Frontier spokesman. "St. Augustine and surrounding areas have supported us and our Low Fares Done Right service since we first launched service, and it's that support that has allowed us to re-introduce this seasonal service to our network today."

St. Augustine, the nation's oldest city, is conveniently located near Jacksonville and Daytona Beach. St. Augustine boasts a year-round mild climate, perfect for exploring the area's rich history or enjoying the coast.
